

Design review: library screen

Meeting minutes · Monday 5 October 2026, 4:00 PM · 1 h 10 min · Zoom

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The team approved the library layout for build with two changes: rows stay at 68 px with status pills shown only for stages that have run, and the processing card hides whenever a filter or search is active.¹ The dark theme will ship with the first version rather than following later.² The empty state needs copy; Sam owns it.

MEETING PURPOSE

Agree the library layout before build starts.

PARTICIPANTS

- Sam Okafor
- Priya Natarajan
- Lee Chen
- Me

AGENDA

- Review mockups
- Row density and status pills
- Dark theme scope
- Owners and next steps (reached with 8 minutes left)

DISCUSSION SUMMARY

Sam opened with the 1440 px mockups and asked whether the row height felt tight.³ Priya agreed that a pill on every row made the list busy. The proposal to show pills only for completed or running stages, and a quiet caption for audio-only recordings, was accepted without objection.⁴ On the dark theme, Lee argued that Windows users switch themes with the system and a light-only first release would look unfinished; nobody disagreed.⁵

DECISIONS

- Row height stays at 68 px.⁶
- Status pills only for stages that have run; audio-only shows a caption.⁷
- Processing card hides while a filter or search is active.⁸
- Dark theme ships in v1.⁹

0:15	Sam Okafor	Let's start with the mockups at 1440 pixels and see whether the rows feel tight.
1:13	Priya Natarajan	They read well at sixty-eight, but a pill on every row makes the list busy.
2:12	Lee Chen	What if we only show pills for stages that have run, and a quiet caption for audio-only?
3:10	Me	That works for me. The processing card should hide while a filter is active.
4:09	Sam Okafor	Agreed. I'll update the library mockup by Wednesday.
5:07	Priya Natarajan	On the dark theme, people switch themes with the system, so a light-only release would look unfinished.
6:06	Lee Chen	Nobody disagrees, then: the dark theme ships in the first version.
7:04	Me	I can produce the dark variant by Wednesday as well.
8:03	Sam Okafor	Should the grid view show thumbnails for video recordings?
9:01	Priya Natarajan	Let's leave that open until video capture is planned.
10:00	Lee Chen	The empty state still needs copy; I'll write it by Friday.
10:58	Me	Good. Next time we walk through the recording screen.
